Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Monday 26 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain or showers for many in the coming days.

This Evening and Tonight:
Some persistent rain for northern Scotland but elsewhere mostly dry with only patchy light rain over northern England, Northern Ireland and perhaps north Wales. Chilly in the far south with a touch of frost possible.

Tuesday:
Cool and cloudy with further rain for northern and eastern Scotland. Showers elsewhere, some of them heavy, though many seeing little rainfall. Sunniest in the far southeast.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Cold with sunny spells and showers; showers most frequent in the north and east. The far south initially cloudier with areas of heavier rain, clearing slowly. Occasional overnight frost.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.